Write Short Stories About Your Life …

Preserving Your Past

Give the best gift for your loved ones … short stories of you, your family, your life and your times. Wouldn’t YOU love to have stories written by YOUR grandparents?

Every week the class discusses a topic. Students talk about what they experienced, and often one person’s story helps others remember details. They write at home (by hand or on a computer) and read what they’ve written to the group the next week (optional). The story doesn’t have to be connected to the topic and it doesn’t have to be long – a half page is great!

Students keep their work in binders, adding photos when possible, to share with their loved ones and pass along as a treasured legacy.

Make friends!

No writing experience necessary!
